Re: Impeachment of an Abuser of Presidential Power to Save Lives, Defend Democracy, and Preserve the Republic

To all people of goodwill,

I take no delight in proclaiming President Donald John Trump is “an abuser of presidential power” who is engendering invidious hate, putting American lives at risk, undermining our democracy, and dissolving our Republic. At this critical moment in history, we must do more than confront the subordinate question of what he will do—we must also confront the superior question of what we will do.

We know that if any other president had called for the execution of Members of Congress and used vituperative language to intimidate federal judges, the opposition party would not wait until they had a majority to vote for his impeachment—they would do more than condemn his behavior. Each and every one would have voted to impeach him, and some members of the other party would join them. We just cannot wait until we all agree to do the right thing.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. reminded us that “the time is always right to do what is right.” John Lewis and peaceful protestors did more than complain and condemn. They didn’t wait until it was safe to cross the Edmund Pettus Bridge on Bloody Sunday. They made perspicuously clear where they stood at that critical moment in time with their words, deeds, and actions. They had the courage of their convictions to march on bloodied, but unbowed. They marched on until the victory was won that allowed President Lyndon B. Johnson to get the Voting Rights Act of 1965 passed—making it possible for many of us to get elected to Congress.

Dear friends, this is our Edmund Pettus Bridge moment, a critical moment in time that can impact the rest of time. My dear beloved brothers and sisters, do what you may. As for me and mine, I will take a stand to save lives. I will take a stand to protect government of the people, by the people, for the people. I will take a stand to impeach this abuser of presidential power. I will do so even if I must stand alone, because for me, on this issue, it is better to stand alone than not stand at all. With respect for God and country tonight, December 10, 2025, I will stand in the well of the House of Representatives and call for a vote on H.Res.939 to impeach President Donald John Trump.

Sincerely,

Al Green

Member of Congress
